

frentix GmbH offers commercial support for the successful open source learning management system OLAT

Built with usability and scalability in mind OLAT works as a technology enabler for advanced elearning projects.

In development and production at University of Zurich since 1999, the LMS OLAT has proven its stability and flexibility for many years. Now you can use this highly integrated and comprehensive platform as well.

Building your unique elearning experiences using the innovative OLAT course elements and access conditions is easy. Once familiar with the online editor, elearning didactics encounter virtually no limits building their custom courses.

Many non course related functions such as group-ware, instant messaging, file-sharing, calendar or full-text search make the system truly unique.
